East Side Board President Recognizes Excellence and Sets Direction for Future

On Thursday, February 8, 2001, at 4 pm at the East Side Union High School District Education Center, Board President Craig Mann will present his vision for the future to the East Side community. As a part of the "State of the District" program, the board will also recognize some outstanding students and staff.

Scheduled for recognition are: Kelly Bennett, a James Lick graduate who was responsible for alerting the police to a potential bomb threat; Jamie Davis-Shawhyde and Rodrigo Olivia, student winners of the District's Martin Luther King, Jr., Essay and Poster Competition; student leaders from schools throughout the district for their efforts on a recent District leadership conference; and teachers from the Foothill Robotics Program for winning national, county and local recognition.

President Mann wants to kick off his presentation by highlighting District's strengths. "We have a large number of successes that we need to build upon and opportunities to explore. I envision that in the near future all students in the East Side will be able to experience high degrees of academic success. We will have established a clear set of high standards for all. The organization will be data driven, using multiple measurements and we will have established a culture of continuous improvement," said Mann.
